A Song of Scottish Publishing, 1671-1893

Posted on 15 Dec 2019 by Shawn

The Scottish National Library has made available a collection of chapbooks printed in Scotland, from 1671 – 1893, on their website here. That's nearly 11 million words' worth of material. The booklets cover an enormous variety of subjects. So, what do you do with it?

Data Principles

National Library of Scotland data

Open

The National Library of Scotland publishes data openly and in re-useable formats.

Transparent

We take the provenance of our data seriously, and are open about how and why it has been produced.

Practical

We present datasets in a variety of file formats to ensure that they are as accessible as possible.

Covers years 1768-1860

The first eight editions of Encyclopaedia Britannica, issued from 1768-1860, comprise a total of 143 volumes. The Britannica was first issued in Edinburgh in 100 weekly parts (forming 3 volumes) from 1768 to 1771 and illustrated with 160 copperplate engravings. The enterprise was undertaken by the partnership of printer Colin Macfarquhar (1744-1793) and engraver Andrew Bell (1726-1809) who paid
